THE GRAND VIEW.

This house has always been a favorite with college men, and this season is no exception to the rule, as is demonstrated by the prominent position that its young men have assumed in athletic sports. A baseball nine has been organized, which contains some of the best players in the moun-tains, and their first trial games have proven them to be an unusually strong combination.

The tennis tournaments which were begun last The tennis tournaments which were begun last week were interrupted several times by rain, but the finals have been played off, and resulted in some surprises. The first prize in the singles was wen by Clinten L. Childs, of Ardover, and the second by S. G. Thomson, of Princeton. In the doubles Thomson and Childs wen first prize and Faulke and Larned the second. The play was close and interesting, and the centests were among the best ever seen on these grounds.

A pleasant incident of the week was a poster party and a candy pull given by Miss Mary Howard Cobb, of New-York.

The bloycle meet at the athletic grounds on Wednesday afternoon aftracted five thousand spec-tators, a majority of whom were hotel guests and entiagers. The prominent circuit-chasers competed in the races, and the several contests were interesting. The speedy wheelmen enjoyed a hop at the West End Hotel the same evening.

The affair of the week, however, was the annual parade of the Ancient and Honorakie Order of Tod-era on the board walk this afternoon. Therewere many hables and children in the unique procession, which was witnessed by thousands, who crowded every point of vantage along the ocean front. The parade was arranged by a committee from the Common Council, with Miss Emma Ross as directress and Milan Ross as manager. Prizes were awarded for the youngest baby in line, the baby coming the longest distance, and for the best decorated coaches and floats. Babies of every sort were in line, and the coach decorations were morrooses. There were coaches covered entirely with ribbons and expensive lace, and some were decerated with buniting and colored paper. Little tots, made up as Hayseeds from Lower Squankum, rode on floats made to represent hayfields. There were several miniature lattle-ships in line, with uniformed baby Dewrys, Samprons and Schleys as their proud commanders. Then there were soldiers sailors, Rough Riders, Cubans, fairies, dudes, Indiens, Red Riding Hoods, Dolly Vardens, Uncle Sams, Columbias, policemen, firemen, etc. There was a detachment of boys tidling decorated bicycles, and there was a division of girls with their dolls in tiny baby conches. In the parade were staty-time children from the Jersey City Home of the Principless. The parade over, the youngsters were wheeled to the Auditorium, where the Judges inspected the decorations. It was a difficult task, and it was several hours before the prizes were named as comfortable as possible.

A LATE SEASON AT CAPE MAY STRAW RIDES AND MOONLIGHT SAILS FIND FAVOR.

THE GROUNDS ON WHICH THE CLUBHOUSE STANDS PURCHASED BY THE GOLF CLUB - PHILADELPHIANS IN THE MINORITY.

Cape May, N. J., Aug. 27 (Special) .- A late season is now in prospect for this resort, because o the large number of people who have announced tember, which is the finest month in the year at this season is the fact that they have golf-links on which to pass their spare time, and as the be played without much discomfort, and with nothing to detract from the enjoymen. Dancing has give way to other pleasures, and while a few dance, nearly everybody goes out on straw rides or on moonlight sails on the Sounds, and enjoys dinners parties and such other amusements as can be had about the cottages. The visitors here have danced themselves out this summer, and, as is usual near the close of the season, turn their attention to other ways of passing the time. Bowling tourns ments seem to be in the lead. No fewer than a dozen of them have taken place this week.

Notwithstanding the lateness of the season visitors are coming in in large numbers, and emeng them are people from New-York, Pittsburg, Washington, Baltimore and Cincinnati, and, although Phila leiphia is close to Cape May, Philadelphians are now in the minority.

Since Saturday changes have been made in the golf club, and the uncertainty which before existed has been dispelled by the fact that the Board of Clovernors has purchased the grounds on which the eight days about $20,000 was subscri enance of the clubbouse and links. The links are now in good shape, and by next season will be as good as any that are to be found in the Middle Atlantic States.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley M. Moran and Miss Jennie Moran are among the visitors to Cape May.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Coleman, of New-York, are among the late arrivals at the Stockton.

AMBASSADORS AT NEW LONDON.

MANY SMALL CRAFT MAKE UP FOR THE ABSENCE OF THE LARGE YACHTS IN THE HARBOR

New-London, Conn., Aug. 27 (Special).—This city and the neighboring summer settlements are now enjoying a lively season. Since the war ended the harbor has resumed its former aspect, many yachts being at anchor or passing up and down the Thames. The absence of some of the larger yachts, which usually come here about this time. and which are at present doing Government service, is noticeable, but the fleet of trim small craft, with their glimmering lights, make the harbor between the Pequot House, on the New-London side, and the Fort Griswold House, on the Eastern Point side, a nightly panorama.

The Pequot colony this summer is honored by the presence of three foreign representatives. Sir Julian Paucecote, with his family and official suite, has been here since early in the summer. occupying one of the Pequot cottages. Near by the Austrian Minister, Baron von Henglemuller, has taken a cottage, and this week M. Jules Cambon and his con have been guests at the Pequet House. The three diplomats keep the telegraph wires busy with their official messages, and their presence in a social way lends tone to the settle-

In the last week many uniformed military and naval officers have been present at the dances each evening in the hotel ballrooms. The monitor Jaston, manned by Brooklyn manal reserves, came over from Fisher's Island a few days ago, and on Wednesday the Alleen, a converted yacht, was in the marbor for a day or two. Guests at the hotels have enjoyed being rowed out to the war vesses by the citizen sallors to inspect the interior of the ships.

CROWDS GATHERING AT THE WATER GAP.

CROWDS GATHERING AT THE WATER GAP. Delaware Water Gap, Penn., Aug. 27 (Special).-The busiest season at this resort opened a few days ago, when a sudden rush was made from the large cities. All the houses are full and will remain so until the middle of October. Water Gap is always at its best in the early spring and au-tumn. Mr. Broadhead, the Nestor of landlords, is tumn. Mr. Broadhead, the Nestor of landlords be entertaining an unusually large number of people at Water Gap House, on Bunset Hill. At this house the social features are its chief delight. Among those present are people that have been coming to this house for over twenty years. At the Kittatinny the Messrs. Broadhead are like wise busy as bees, and their fine, modern house is enjoying a prosperous season.

The photograph galleries are doing a rushing business and the oaths on the Jersey shore are the chief attraction of the warm season. Base fishing is good, better, in fact, than at any time in the season, and the large catches made up the river are encouraging fishermen to journey in the direction. Golf continues to be a chief source camusement on the links of the Caldeno Club.
